TALK OF A BOYCOTT.

Strike Will Be Continued During Winter, the Leaders Say. It is intimated by the strike leaders here that a systematic boycott will be begun by them on all business men who have work done by members of the Builders' Exchange. Some of the leaders have frankly admit that they do not expect the members of the Builders' Exchange to yield this season. They maintain, however, that the fight will be kept up all winter and that the builders will be forced to yield in the spring. The master plumbers have refused the last demands of the journeymen. CONDITION OF THE COAL TRADE

Demand in the West Light, but Heavy on the Lakes. Concerning the present condition of the coal trade the Mining and Engineering Journal on Saturday said: "The demand for coal to go up the lakes by way of Buffalo is excellent. One company, and by no means the largest, reports that its western customers could easily take 1,000 tons a day more. The labor troubles at Buffalo led to a congestion of cars there that has not been remedied yet, and there is a general complaint of a short supply of cars at the collieries. "Demand in the east is very light. The sales agents of the large companies are all very positive in their refusal to sell coal for less than the schedule price. Deliveries, however, on orders placed before July 1st are very active and the movement of coal is practically confined to such orders. The real test of the market will come in a month or less, when these orders are filled and buyers show more activity than the 25c advance. "The supply of vessels at Buffalo has not been sufficient at current offerings to supply the demand and freight rates have risen to over 60c a ton for Lake Superior ports and 60c for Lake Michigan. "It looks as if there would be a period of waiting in August and September, at least so far as the New York market is concerned. In the meantime the consumers have usually profited by such waits. Whether or not they will this year remains to be seen."

COMPANY'S ANSWER FILED.

What It States with Reference to the Old Forge Matter. The answer of the Scranton and Pittston Street Railway company to the suit in equity begun some time ago by the citizens of Old Forge, was filed in court on Saturday. The answer is signed by G. Richard Nichols, one of the directors of the company, and is sworn to before a notary public. The claim is made that Old Forge is a duly incorporated borough and that the highway in question is one of its streets. Denial is made of the charge that the street passes over the land of the complainants and also of the charge that the company was instrumental in securing the incorporation of the borough. The charge that the election of the burgess and the councilmen was illegal is denied. The charge that the passing of the ordinance by the council was not for the best interests of the town is also denied. The allegation that unlawful means had been used to secure the passage of the ordinance is denied in toto and the averment made that it was drawn in accordance with the suggestion of the council. The defense also claims that it has secured the right of way to construct and operate a street railway over the site as far as the route mentioned in the ordinance. It is admitted that a portion of the route lies over the property of the Pennsylvania Coal company, but the statement is made that it is necessary and that the company's permission has been secured.

NATIONAL GUARD RULING.

Officers Cannot Obtain Leave of Absence to Enter U. S. Service. The question of granting leaves of absence to officers of the National Guard who enter the United States service in the volunteer regiments now being recruited, has been presented to Adjutant General Stewart. General Stewart states that the granting of a leave of absence for two years would not be in the interest of the National Guard service, that it would reduce the strength of organizations as far as officers are concerned, and would impose upon junior or other officers the burden of command or administration without commensurate rank. He said that if a captain or colonel were given leave of absence for that time the duties would have to be performed by the next in rank, who would assume all the responsibility without enjoying the commission. HUGHES WAS BROUGHT BACK. Is in the Police Station Awaiting a Hearing. John J. QUARTERS FOR THE NEW YORKERS

DELEGATION HEADED BY PRESIDENT FITZGERALD HERE. Came to Arrange for Hotel Accommodations for the Letter Carriers' Band and Delegates from Manhattan Borough—Greater New York Will Send Twenty-five Hundred Carriers to Participate in the Labor Day Parade—Mr. Robathan Makes Answer to Some False Statements. President Fitzgerald, of the New York Letter Carriers' association, was in the city Saturday and part of yesterday, making arrangements for the quartering of the New York delegates and the New York letter carriers' band. Mr. Fitzgerald was accompanied by James Greer, manager of the band, and Frank Houtz, leader of the organization. Quarters were obtained for the eighty-five musicians at the Westminster and accommodations for the seventy-one delegates, who are coming from Manhattan borough, were secured at the Jermyn. The latter house now has places booked for 157 delegates to the convention. An effort will be made to bring the band to the city on Saturday evening, September 2, so that ample time may be given to the musicians to prepare for the concert to be given on Sunday afternoon, September 3, in Nay Aug park. Mr. Fitzgerald waxed enthusiastically over the coming convention and stated that it is bound to be the most successful in the history of the organization. He says that the letter carriers present from Greater New York alone in the Labor day parade will number 2,500.

POSITIVE ASSURANCE.

He states that he has received positive assurance from Governor Roosevelt that the latter will be here if any accommodations can be made to get him in Ogdenburg on the following day. Superintendent Russell, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, has offered the use of a special train, but that the redoubtable Teddy will positively be here. The New York association has offered a beautiful silk flag as a prize to the New York division of letter carriers making the best showing in the parade. The points to be considered are general appearance and marching. The judges are to be Postmaster General Smith, Governor Roosevelt and Postmaster Ripple and the judgment is to be made on the appearance of the men at the parade morning by President Phillips of the local organization and Messrs. O'Malley and Robathan. They left the city yesterday afternoon on the 125 train for New York. Secretary Robathan is indignant over the statement made in the yesterday day to the effect that Mayor Moir was being slighted. He said: "The mayor has not been slighted. A committee waited upon him over three weeks ago and tendered him an invitation to deliver the address of welcome on the opening session of the convention and also to respond to a toast at the reviewing banquet to be held at the Jermyn. He cordially accepted both and informed the committee that if he could do anything towards the perfecting of arrangements, he would willingly do so. "In regard to the objection made to placing the reviewing stand next to the postoffice instead of at the Municipal building, I would say that there are many good reasons why this was done. In the first place it will be near the postoffice, which is an appropriate place. Then again it will be right at the center of activities, the court house square. This will be brilliantly illuminated at night and band concerts can be given from the stand. It will also be used by the club which has been organized for the convention. If it were to some extent out of the way for these purposes."

ARE AFTER 'SQUIRE DONOHUE.

An Effort to Be Made to Impeach the Doughty Wilkes-Barrean. Alderman Donohue of the Third ward of Wilkes-Barre may be called upon to show reasons why he shall not be impeached from office. Two actions in trespass for damages were commenced against him Saturday by the Crescent Coal company, which operates mines at Ladia. A. J. Weiss, a representative of the company, gives out the statement that before the case is concluded the legislature will have an opportunity to deal with the 'Squire. The story of the trouble is that about three months ago Frank Sargent and Z. W. Creely appeared before the alderman and asked that warrants be issued for miners for whom they had labored in the Crescent company mine and who, they alleged, refused to pay them the full amount of wages due them. The alderman, Mr. Weiss states, made the company the defendant in the case, and at the hearing gave judgment in favor of the laborers for $8 each and costs in the case. The company further says that when Saturday and Creely learned the company was sued, they came to Mr. Weiss and stated they did not desire to prosecute the company, it being the miners they were after. After having the case certified, Mr. Weiss left a check in his office for the costs. That day he was hurriedly called to New York city. During his absence Alderman Donohue issued an execution on a team belonging to the company was attached, hence the action for damages, and the determination to impeach the alderman.

BURGLARS ARRESTED.

Gang of Boys at Peckville Arrested by County Detective Leysion. County Detective Leysion rounded up a gang of youthful burglars at Peckville, which has for some time operated at that place with much success. The band is composed of Will Marks, David Vaughan, Eugene Sybil, Roy Hyatt, Joe Marks, John Ustasi, Martin Subitiski. With the exception of Will Marks, who is eighteen years of age and the leader of the gang, all the others are but thirteen years old. On a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Arnold of Peckville, the lads were arrested.

MENTION OF SOME MEN OF THE HOUR

DR. WEAVER, THE LACKAWANNA'S HOUSE SURGEON. He is a Newspaper Man as Well as a Physician—Captain DeLacy Has Returned from the Meeting of the Medal of Honor Men at Burlington, Vt.—President Fitzgerald of the New York Letter Carriers Association Was in the City Saturday. President Fitzgerald of the New York Letter Carriers' association who was in the city Saturday is one of the best known carriers in the country. He is bright, sharp and has a very happy blended combination of geniality and aggressiveness. During the last few months he has paid several visits to Scranton and has made a great many friends who will be pleased to work in a short vacation in September to attend the annual convention of the carriers. One duty that devolves upon Mr. Fitzgerald as president of the carriers' association is to act as counsel for the carriers when they are brought before the postmaster to answer charges. It is a position in which his gift of mother wit stands him in good stead. Many a carrier guilty of some slight infraction of the rules that would entitle him to a short vacation without pay has been saved by the president's unique way of stating the case to the postmaster. Mr. Fitzgerald delivers a route every day as do the other carriers, but his day is so arranged that from 11 until 1 o'clock each day he is at liberty to defend his brother carriers, the postmaster daily holding his court between these hours. New York has over 1,600 carriers and naturally a number of cases are down for a hearing each day. For the average American citizen has not the slightest hesitancy about registering a complaint against any public servant, but particularly against a mail carrier. The postoffice department is conducted in such a faultless manner that even a slight offense or apparent offense is instantly noted. "Any one who has ever had any intercourse with Dr. William Weaver, the tall, genial house surgeon at the Lackawanna hospital, must be impressed above all things with his remarkable good nature and joviality. He is not a member of that branch of the medical profession who regard the practice of the healing art as a sorrowful proceeding to be carried through with due solemnity. He carries a smiling countenance and a cheerful and cheery manner with him as he discharges his duties. In the wards of the hospital and the poor sufferers have come to look upon his daily rounds as moments when they can forget for a time their own sufferings. He always has a word of encouragement or a witty remark for every one. Sometimes he sits at the piano for he is an accomplished musician, and plays for the patients, believing in the soothing effect of music on those who are in pain. The doctor is a graduate of the medical department of Yale university, class of '97. He is a New Englander by birth, his home being in New Haven. He has worked on and off at the newspaper business since a very young man and previous to his appointment at the Lackawanna was assistant city editor of the New York Evening Sun. He had entire charge of all war news published in that paper during the summer of '98, which speaks volumes for his ability in that line. Captain P. DeLacy is home from Burlington, Vt., where he attended the annual meeting of those who have been awarded the medal of honor for distinguished bravery while in the service of their country. It was a notable gathering. The captain says, and they were most hospitably treated by the people of Burlington. He does not think the reception at Burlington, however, in any way overshadowed the reception the medal of honor men received in this city two years ago. Those who attended both meetings assured Captain DeLacy that there was a heartiness and fervor about the reception they received here that the colder and more reserved New Englanders could not quite equal. One of the distinguished medal of honor men at the gathering was General Nelson A. Miles. He was one of the lions of the meeting and made his personal address at the banquet. In his public address and in his conversations with other medal warriors he studiously avoided saying anything about his troubles at Washington. He had no complaints to make or criticisms to offer. An effort was made to have a resolution passed commending the manner in which General Alger conducted the war department but it was not successful. Captain DeLacy delivered one of the many speeches that were made in opposition to it.

MISS KIJIMA OF JAPAN.

She Spoke at the Y. W. C. A. Meeting Yesterday Afternoon. The Friday afternoon meeting of the Young Women's Christian association was addressed by Miss Miss Kijima, of Japan. Miss Kijima is a graduate of the Union Missionary school at Yokohama, of which Miss Carolyn Dorsey, formerly Kijima, is principal. Miss Kijima is here for the purpose of advancing her education in the English language, that she may become a more efficient evangelist to her own people. Miss Kijima is prepared to give periods in furtherance of this object. Although what was her first attempt at speaking in English, she was very easily understood and is evidently a very bright girl. Miss Kijima is the daughter of a high caste Japanese. She brought with her a collection of articles, including a beautiful embroidery. She is being entertained at the home of Mrs. S. C. Dorsey, 521 Dalaware street.

USED 'SQUIRE KASSON'S NAME.

Effort Made to Secure an Increase of Pension for a New Milford Man. Alderman Kasson evaded a letter Saturday from H. Clay Evans, pension commissioner at Washington, that for a time was a puzzle to him. Enclosed also was a letter that purported to have been written by Mr. Kasson to the pension commissioner asking for an increase in the pension of a veteran of N. W. Milford, Susquehanna county. The veteran, or a friend conceived the idea that it would be a clever move to get some of the alderman's stationery written to Mr. Evans on it, and sign Mr. Kasson's name. However, some necessary details were omitted, and the commissioner sent the letter and a blank to be filled, back to Mr. Kasson, and there it rests.

OUTING AT RICHMOND PINES.

Young Women of the Y. W. C. A. Spent Saturday Afternoon There. A party of young ladies representing the several branches of the Young Women's Christian association picnicked at Richmond Pines on Saturday afternoon. They were chaperoned by Misses Elizabeth Doersam and Esther Rowland. Basket ball and bean bags furnished entertainment, though that furnished by nature's loveliness in this charming spot left nothing to be desired. Among the notable features of the day we observed an illustration of the power of kindness over what were apparently some rather neglected specimens of boyhood—"A soft answer turneth away wrath" and truly "Actions speak louder than words."

FLEMING-M'KERNON NUPTIALS.

Ceremony Performed by Rev. M. J. Fleming, the Groom's Cousin. Patrick J. Fleming and Miss Sarah E. McKernon, both residents of Forest City, were united in marriage at St. John's Catholic church, South Scranton, at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, by Rev. M. J. Fleming, cousin of the groom, and nephew of Father Fleming, of Snow Shoe. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Kate McKernon, and Carl Wagner, of the Scranton House, was groomsmen. Both ladies were attired in white satin and carried bouquets of white and pink roses. The party took supper at the Scranton House and afterwards left for New York, where they will visit the groom's brother, who is a member of the metropolitan police force. Upon their return they will reside in Forest City.

NEW YORK PAPERS DELAYED.

Wreck on the Erie at Lackawaxen Was the Cause. Some of the New York papers did not arrive in this city until 3.30 yesterday afternoon on account of the serious wreck on the Erie at Lackawaxen. From early morning until the special train which brought the papers to this city arrived, a great throng of newspapers from all parts of the city had congregated at the Erie and Wyoming depot. There were at least 500 of them when the train did arrive and rush and stamped, that issued rendered one of a football field upon which a couple of dozen teams had been let loose. "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for years and with always good results," says Mr. W. B. Cooper, of El Rio, Cal. "For small children we find it especially effective." Bellevue Boy Arrested at the Instance of P. J. Messitt. Owen O'Malley, a Bellevue boy, was arraigned before Alderman Kasson Saturday on charges of malicious mischief and housebreaking, preferred by P. J. Messitt. The defendant entered a building on Broadway owned by Mr. Messitt, and destroyed copper and brass fixtures amounting to $85. The hearing was postponed for a week.

A REMARKABLE FIND.

Infernal Contrivance Used to Punish Criminals Found in Virginia. From the New York Journal. Probably the most remarkable historical relic ever discovered in this country has just been found in the neighborhood of St. George's court house in Virginia. It is a sort of skeleton framework of iron, containing the skull and some of the bones of a man. The greatest interest in this matter lies in the fact that it was not supposed that such contrivances were ever used in this country, though they were frequently employed in England a century ago. The utilization of such a cage was a more variation on the then familiar method of hanging people in chains. This style was commonly adopted in the case of murderers, in order that their bodies might be exhibited to the public gaze for a long period, affording a warning. The cage dug up in Virginia is of exactly the same pattern as can be found represented in certain books published in the last century. It consists of a sort of skeleton helmet, a body part, portions to contain the legs and even pieces of the feet. The apparatus is lightly made, so as simply to hold the body in an erect posture and at the same time to expose it completely to view. In those old days, when a criminal was hanged in chains, the process consisted in suspending him from an ordinary gallows or gibbet by means of a chain which was attached to a hook and passed beneath the arms and between the legs. In the case of the contrivance here described the chain was simply attached to the top of the helmet, and in this way the cage was swung with the man in it. The cage consisted of a number of strips of iron about an inch and a half wide. In this contrivance the body would remain until it literally fell to pieces. It was customary to measure the condemned for such "iron" as they were called, and this process is said to have had more effect upon the nerves of the most hardened offender than even the sentence pronounced against him. It was usual a century ago to dispose of pirates in this way, and many such gentry were hanged in cages on the banks of the Thomas opposite Blue water. This custom, indeed, was continued through the earlier years of the present century and the windows of the waterside taverns and Blackwall were supplied with spy-glasses, through which customers might enjoy the spectacle of the criminals dangling in a row. When Charles V entered Douai the citizens erected triumphal arches and otherwise adorned the town. But at the last moment they recoiled the unsightly appearance of an unhappy wretch who had been gibbeted hard by the gate through which the monarch was to enter. "Hence," as the chronicler relates, "they dressed the body in a clean white shirt to do honor to the emperor." To take the body away would have been unlawful. In those times, and all through the middle ages, it was customary to expose hanged criminals, and children were even taken to see them for the sake of communicating a moral lesson.
